

Market, Socialist, and Mixed Economies

Comparative Policy and Performance

Chile, Cuba, and Costa Rica

with Alberto Arenas de Mesa, Ivan Brenes,
Verónica Montecinos, and Mark Samara

The Johns Hopkins University Press
Baltimore and London (2000)

Contents

List of Tables	ix
Acknowledgments	xvii
List of Abbreviations	xix
Part I INTRODUCTION	1
Tables to Part I	19
Part II CHILE: THE MARKET MODEL	27
1 Introduction	29
2 Monetarism, Adjustment, and the First Crisis: 1973–1976	34
3 Monetarism, Open Economy, Growth, and Indebtedness: 1976–1981	49
4 Second Crisis and State Intervention: 1981–1983	66
5 Corrections, Recovery, and Economic Boom: 1984–1990	80
6 Democracy, Continuation of the Economic Model, and Growth with Equity: 1990–1994	105
Tables to Part II	133
Part III CUBA: THE SOCIALIST MODEL	169
1 Introduction	171
2 Liquidation of Capitalism and Market Erosion: 1959–1960	175
	vii

3	Orthodox (Stalinist) Central Planning Model: 1961–1963	181
4	Debate over and Test of Alternative Socialist Models: 1964–1966	195
5	Adoption and Radicalization of the Guevarist Model: 1966–1970	209
6	Introduction of a Moderate Soviet (Pre-Gorbachev) Model of Economic Reform: 1971–1985	227
7	Antimarket Rectification Process: 1986–1990	264
8	Market-Oriented Reform: 1991 and Following	289
	Tables to Part III	341
Part IV	COSTA RICA: THE MIXED MODEL	397
1	Introduction	399
2	Establishing the Foundations of the Model: 1940–1958	402
3	Consolidation, Expansion, and Crisis of the Model: 1958–1982	412
4	Stabilization, Adjustment, and Restructuring: 1982–1994	461
	Tables to Part IV	501
Part V	COMPARISONS OF POLICIES AND PERFORMANCE	535
1	Comparison of Policies	537
2	Comparison of Performance	562
	Tables to Part V	625
	Bibliography	665
	Index	695