

Occasional Papers No. 33

SETTING MONETARY POLICY IN EAST ASIA: GOALS, DEVELOPMENTS AND INSTITUTIONS

By
Robert N. McCauley

The South-East Asian Central Banks
Research and Training Centre
(The SEACEN Centre)
Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia

CONTENT

	Page
Foreword	iii
Contents	v
1. Introduction	1
2. The Appropriate Objectives of Monetary Policy	1
2.1 Goals	2
2.1.1 Price Stability	2
2.1.2 Financial Stability	3
2.1.3 Exchange-Rate Stability	4
2.1.4 Capital Account Openness	4
2.1.5 Positive Real Interest Rate on Deposits?	5
2.2 Goals and Instruments	6
3. Recent Choice of Objectives in East Asia	7
3.1 Price Stability	7
3.1.1 Singapore: Price Stability and the Exchange Rate	9
3.1.2 The Choice Between a General Orientation to Price Stability and Explicit Inflation Targeting	12
3.1.3 Inflation Targeters' Choices	14
3.1.4 US and Asian Interest Rates	16
3.2 Exchange Rates	16
3.2.1 China, Hong Kong and Malaysia	18
3.2.2 The Singapore Dollar	19
3.2.3 The NT Dollar	20
3.2.4 The Rupiah, Won, Peso and Baht	20
3.2.5 The Balance of Interest Rate and Exchange Rate Volatility	22

3.2.6	Styles of Foreign Exchange Market Intervention	25
3.2.7	Limitations on International Capital Flows	28
4.	Central Bank Independence in East Asia	34
4.1	Legal Independence	34
4.2	Behavioural Independence	40
4.3	Balance Sheet Independence	42
5.	Conclusions	45
	References	54