Post-Merger Integration and the Management of Information and Communication Systems

An analytical framework and its application in tourism

With a foreword by Prof. Dr. Klaus-Peter Wiedmann

Table of contents

1.0	Introduction	1
1.1	Research topic	2
1.1.1	Dissertation title elaboration	2
1.1.2	Key definitions & underlying assumptions	2
1.2	Research imperative	5
1.3	Research methodology	8
1.3.1	Research methods: Opting for a post-positivist approach	9
1.3.2	Appropriateness of case-study choice: World of TUI	10
1.3.3	Research techniques adopted	11
1.4	Structural logic of the dissertation	13
2.0	Literature review	15
2.1	Merger literature and research: Theoretical context	15
2.1.1	Merger value: Empirical data and the synergy limitation perspective	17
2.1.2	Merger motives: Socio - psychological motivation theories	24
2.1.3	Merger management perspective	26
2.2	Merger theory and practice: Evaluation and implications	39
2.3	The role of post merger integration in mergers	40
2.4	The importance of information & communication systems in post merger integration	41
2.5	Establishing the basis for the creation of a management framework for post-merger ICS	43
3.0	ICS Management within post merger integration: analytical framework construction	46
3.1	VIP concept: The path from vision to process	46

3.2	Towards an integrated concept for ICS management within mergers	48
3.2.1	The dynamic nature of value creation in mergers	48
3.2.2	PMI visualisation	50
3.2.3	Rules of the integration game	51
3.2.4	ICS management competence	53
3.2.5	ICS integration strategy	56
3.2.6	ICS development process	58
3.2.7	ICS programme organisation	65
3.3	Post-merger ICS management concept overview: Managing systems for integration value - POMICS	68
3.4	POMICS application variants	70
3.4.1	Initiation: Merger feasibility and integration planning	70
3.4.2	Mid-way: During integration	71
3.4.3	After: From integration experience to knowledge	72
3.4.4	Applying POMICS in the context of the case study	72
3.5	Synergy equals syskepsis and synpraxis	73
4.0	Concept of value in tourism mergers	75
4.1	Mergers in tourism: Historical overview and rationale	75
4.1.1	Vertical integration in European tourism: Historical success challenged by the future	75
4.1.2	Horizontal integration in European tourism: Meeting future challenges	79
4.2	Key sources of merger value in tourism	80
4.2.1	Value generation in tourism: Complexity and dynamism	80
4.2.2	Integration synergy levers: Accommodation & carrier	88
5.0	Integration meaning in the world of TUI	98
5.1	Integration visualisation: The Y model	98
5.1.2	The world of TUI and the Y model of integration: Brief description	99
5.1.2	The Y model as a communication instrument	101
5.1.3	The Y model as a tool for achieving commitment	102
5.1.4	The Y model and the risk of misalignment	103

5.2	Y model of Integration: Strengths and risks	107
5.3	Rules of the game in the world of TUI: Integration of equals	108
5.3.1	TUI's integration rules: An overview	109
5.3.2	Rule awareness: Implicit understanding & intention-perception gaps	112
5.3.3	Rule validity: A reality check	115
5.3.4	TUI's Integration rules: Strengths, weaknesses and change management needs	117
5.4	Evaluation of visualisation – integration game rules relationship: Implications	119
5.4.1	The need to critically evaluate the Y model	119
5.4.2	The need for change management: Resolving rules – reality conflicts & bridging intention-perception gaps	121
6.0	ICS integration potential in the world of TUI	122
6.1	The importance of ICS for integration in TUI	122
6.1.1	Dependence of operations on existing systems	122
6.1.2	From Titan to Apollo: Establishing ICS in the overall integration effort	123
6.2	ICS management competence	126
6.2.1	A pre-merger independent assessment of IT capability	126
6.2.2	IT Human resource assets: “The curse of Sisyphus”	127
6.2.3	Consolidation of technology bases, system landscapes & data structures: The burden of history	128
6.2.4	Consolidation equals standardisation: The challenge ahead	134
6.2.5	Relationship between IT and business: Strong separation between responsibilities and the need for business analysts	136
6.2.6	ICS Competence in the world of TUI: Interplay of factors	138
6.2.7	ICS competence in the European tourism sector: Similar issues facing the rest large integrated groups	142
